

WE NEED YOUR HELP!

Families receiving early intervention services are asked to complete a survey to show if services are helping their child and family.

Washington State is required to report to the federal government each year that early intervention services have positive results for children and families served. We need your help to gather this information.

Your Family Resources Coordinator (FRC) will ask you to complete a survey while your child is in services and when your child leaves early intervention. You can complete it online or complete a printed survey from your FRC.

Please help us show the federal government that early intervention works and should continue to receive funding.

You can complete the Family Survey online:

Contact your FRC if you have additional questions.
